With the Google authoring tools , you can retrieve content from a prior version of your Google docs, sheet or slides by looking at the version history view.

The image shows a Google Docs interface. The top part of the document displays the text: "This database was referred to in one of the articles: <http://itindia.org/envis/Default.aspx>, <https://www.nanopartikel.info/en/nanoinfo/basics>, <http://nanoparticlelibrary.net/links.asp>. Thank you so much. Sorry for my late response (data problems). I will look at them."

A green box highlights the top status bar, which reads: "Last edit was made on 21 September 2018 by Nokuthula Nzimande. Every change that you make is automatically saved in Drive." A green arrow points to the text "Click on last edit" below this box.

A large green arrow points down to the bottom part of the image, which shows the "Version history" panel. The panel title is "21 September 2018, 07:45". It lists three versions:

Version	Author
21 September 2018, 07:45	Nokuthula Nzimande
17 September 2018, 08:53	Lesego Makhafoia
17 September 2018, 08:39	Lesego Makhafoia

The "21 September 2018, 07:45" version is highlighted as the current version. A green box surrounds the "Version history" panel. In the bottom right corner, there is a Creative Commons BY license logo.

Version history access:

1. Click on last edit
2. File ---> version history ---> see version history

You can also name the current version as well as previous versions.
